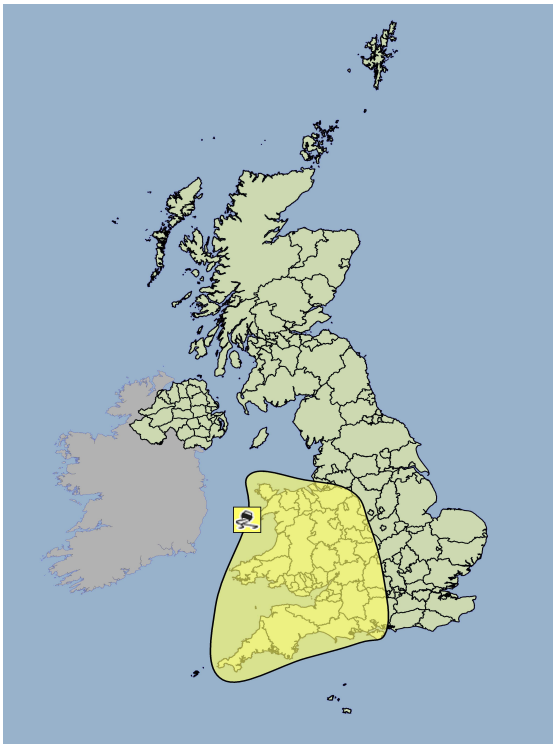
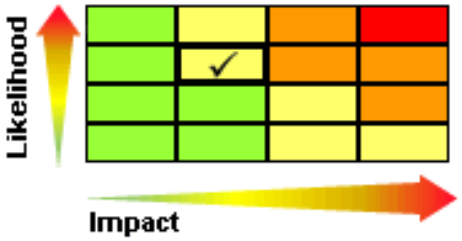
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A frontal band has been bringing outbreaks of rain, sleet, and occasional wet snow southwards across parts of England and Wales. Across the south of the yellow area, road temperatures may dip below freezing early on Sunday evening before precipitation arrives and falls onto frozen surfaces overnight, turning conditions icy in places. Conversely, across the north of the yellow area, skies will clear on Sunday evening allowing temperatures to fall widely below freezing following earlier rain, sleet and snow, producing ice on untreated surfaces. However, not all parts of the warning area will see ice formation as some places will remain dry.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 17:00 on Sun, 18th Jan 2015 until 10:00 on Mon, 19th Jan 2015

Ice is likely to form on untreated surfaces, especially where rain, sleet and wet snow has fallen during Sunday. The public should be aware of the risk of difficult driving conditions and slippery surfaces which will last into Monday morning.
